B

This is a story between a woman and a tree in America.

Julia Hill was born in 1974. As she grew up, she realized it was important to protect trees. At the age of 23, she heard some bad news one day. A company wanted to cut down part of forest in California. In the forest there was a 1, 000-year-old redwood tree, which was 70 metres tall! Julia wasn't happy about this. She thought, "If I sit in the redwood tree, the company can't cut it down."

So she traveled to California to protect the redwood tree. In order to stop the company, Julia climbed up the redwood tree, built a small treehouse and lived in it. Her friends cooked food for her every day. Many news reporters came to interview her. Julia talked to those reporters by mobile phone.

Many people supported Julia, but other people were not on her side. They tried to stop her. The company used a helicopter to fly around her treehouse. It made a lot of noise and brought strong wind. But nothing could stop Julia. She stayed in the redwood tree for two years and eight days.

In the end, Julia was successful. The company agreed not to cut down the redwood tree. Julia and her friends became very happy.

Some Ways to Improve Your Study

As a high school student, it is important for you to do well in study. The better ways you have, the better you will learn. But do you know how to improve your study? 36

● Pay attention in class. First, don't make any noise in class. 37 Last but not least, get yourself involved in classroom activities.

● 38 If you are not sure how to take notes, start by writing down the important points that your teacher mentions or writes on the blackboard. It's a good idea to keep your notes in order by subject. It can help you master what you have learnt.

● Go over your lessons. 39 By going over your lessons, you can understand and remember better. So you should review your lessons now and then after class.

● Learn from your classmates. Everyone has his own advantages. You should learn not only from your teachers but also from your classmates. You can learn in pairs or in groups to solve problems. 40

I'm sure you will improve your study sooner or later if you follow the ways above.

- A. Take good notes.
- B. Believe in yourself.
- C. Here are some ways to help you.
- D. It is necessary for you to go over your lessons.
- E. You should take part in out-of-school activities.
- F. Second, pay attention to what the teacher says.
- G. In this way, you can learn from each other and know more.

Saturday June 20th Sunny

Our class went on a school trip today. We visited Hongxing Farm and it was a really exciting trip.

All of my classmates started at 8:30 am and got to the farm on the school bus. As soon as we arrived, the head of the farm showed us around the farm. After that, we did a lot of interesting things there. In the morning, we picked watermelons in the fields. At noon, we had a picnic on the farm. In the afternoon, we helped grow vegetables. We also took lots of pictures there. We returned at 4:30 pm.

All in all, we learned a lot today. We were a little tired but very happy. I think it is a meaningful experience.

Text 10

I am Jenny. I come from Canada. Now I am living in Beijing with my aunt and studying in a middle school. I came here three years ago when my aunt got a new job in Beijing. At the beginning, I felt lonely because I had no friends in the city. I missed my family and old friends in Canada. However, I have come to find the teachers and classmates here are friendly to me. The teachers help me with my studies. In our spare time, the classmates invite me to visit Hutong. There we watch Beijing Opera and enjoy Beijing roast duck. Besides, during the holidays, my aunt often shows me around Beijing. I've fallen in love with the rich culture here. Now I am enjoying my life in Beijing very much.
